Description of the Event

Multiplier Event Report in Lithuania

Host: Asociacija "Socialinis hubas" (SocHub)

Place/Venue: Šiauliai, P. Višinskio st. 34

Date: The event was held on the 21st of February.

Description of the event:

Most participants were representatives of various associations and NGOs working with youth. We also had some educators and representatives from centres for people with disabilities and local communities.

Promotion of the event:

The main dissemination channels for the event were Facebook and Gmail. To reach our target audience, we created a Facebook post inviting them to attend. However, the majority of attendees were gathered through personal email outreach. Our organization maintains an internal database with a diverse range of contacts, including representatives from youth organizations, NGOs, and local community groups. Leveraging this database allowed us to directly reach individuals who were most likely to be interested in the event, ensuring a more engaged and relevant audience.

Summary:

Overall, the The PhotoVoice exposition added significant value by showcasing bottom-up approaches to youth expression, which resonated strongly with attendees. The positive feedback received suggests that the event contributed to strengthening the community's understanding of the importance of youth participation and creative storytelling as a means of empowerment.

What worked well:

- The interactive format, including discussions and the opportunity for participants to express their thoughts, contributed to an inclusive and engaging atmosphere.
- The exhibition and project presentations captured attention and were highlighted as particularly interesting.
- The use of digital tools, such as QR codes, was appreciated as an effective way to provide additional information.
- The participants were satisfied with the event and did not highlight any specific areas for improvement for the future.
